

Cloud Architecture

Serverless computing allows developers to build and run applications without managing server infrastructure.